

THE LIES/EXCUSES WE BELIEVE ABOUT IMPACT THAT WILL SEND US TO HELL:

1. VERIFIABLE EVIDENCE IS NOT NECESSARY.

IMPACT

A) The Rogers Family: Ken and Katie Rogers have chosen careers and hobbies that require lots of travel and very little time at home. Because they have allowed their kids to play sports, their time on the weekends is likewise spent largely away from home. The family also maxes out the number of Sundays they can be absent from church, in an effort to rejuvenate from their busy schedules. This in turn affects the time they spend in regular discipleship, deep study of God's Word, fellowship with church family and attempting to reach others for Christ. Ken and Katie however do spend lots of time in their pastor's office, receiving marriage and parenting counseling.

B) The Rodriguez Family: Sam and Sally Rodriguez each possess the kinds of college degrees and expertise that could command four times what they actually earn. This is by choice. They have chosen less-paying jobs with less demands so as to have more time for learning God's Word, getting together w/God's people and growing in their relationship w/one another. The fact that they have children has also impacted what they do and where they spend their time. The family is heavily involved with their church, and both parents are committed to regular discipleship of the children and long conversations about God's Word. Sam and Sally are equally committed to learning how to be better spouses and parents through spending time with more mature married couples and parents in the church. Lastly, all members of the family are constantly attempting to reach others for Christ through sharing the gospel and praying for those individuals.

Based on what we learned, which of these two families are more likely to have an IMPACT for Christ and His kingdom and the verifiable evidence to prove it?
